'When all the others were away at Mass'

When all the others were away at Mass
I was all hers as we peeled potatoes.
They broke the silence, let fall one by one
Like solder weeping off the soldering iron:
Cold comforts set between us, things to share
Gleaming in a bucket of clean water.
And again let fall. Little pleasant splashes
From each other's work would bring us to our senses.
So while the parish priest at her bedside
Went hammer and tongs at the prayers for the dying
And some were responding and some crying
I remembered her head bent towards my head,
Her breath in mine, our fluent dipping knives –
Never closer the whole rest of our lives.
Seamus Heaney

Some Inspiration

The "Catechism of the Catholic Church" says that the Holy Trinity is a mystery, one that "in itself is inaccessible to the human mind." I once had a college professor liken it to biting a wall. You can get close and open your mouth to it, maybe even lick it, but you can never really get a full satisfying bite of it. His analogy concerned revelation and how we may know theologies and dogmas of the Holy Trinity, but we will never really fully grasp them in their entirety. While I understand where he was going with it, I'm drawn to consider that perhaps too often that is how we view the Trinity — reducing it to something we can see and touch, but knowing it is something we will never be satisfied with on this earth and leaving it at that. It is something that is other than us, or a thing we are passive witnesses of, sitting around scratching our heads about. The readings this weekend reveal even more of this mystery to us.

Reflections

1. Wisdom about life comes slowly and sometimes painfully. Hearing the 'right' answer at the 'wrong' time does not help us. We need to be ready and open to receiving the truth if it is to have any impact. Perhaps you can recall some occasions when it was the 'right' time for you to learn a truth about life. Remember your experiences of growing in understanding and truth.

2. Perhaps the Spirit guided you through the words of someone close to you, or through the words and actions of people you read about or saw on TV. Or maybe understanding came to you when praying or reflecting on your life. Remember and give thanks for the people who have helped you to greater wisdom on your journey through life.

3. Wisdom is handed on from person to person, and from generation to generation, within families, within communities, etc. Are there any particular gems of wisdom that you cherish from what has been handed on to you?

PRAYER

God, your name is veiled in mystery, yet we dare to call you Father; your Son was begotten before all ages, yet is born among us in time; your Holy Spirit fills the whole creation, yet is poured forth now into our hearts. Because you have made us and loved us and called us by your name, draw us more deeply into your divine life, that we may glorify you rightly, through your Son, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God, for ever and ever. Amen.

Pope Benedict's Prayer.

Dear friends, may no adversity paralyse you.
Be not afraid neither of the world
nor of the future nor of your weakness.
The Lord has allowed you to live
in this moment of history
so that by your faith, his name will continue to resound throughout the world.

Thought for the day

"Silence is the language God speaks and everything else is a bad translation" is variously attributed. Whoever penned it, it strikes a chord on the feast of the Holy and Undivided Trinity. As we stand before the absolute mystery of God, one and three, transcendent and immanent, greater than our hearts and yet closer to us than we are to ourselves, wordless prayer is fitting. And yet... the Mysterious Silence has been broken, if not by "mere" words then certainly by the Word made flesh, whose Spirit has been poured into our hearts.

Prayer

God, beyond our minds and ideas, our hearts and our feelings, we believe absolutely in your love for each and for all. Let your astonishing love kindle in our inner selves a response of love and wonder. Amen.
